DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant has received a first action on the merits. The Office action addressed both method and apparatus because the search of one invention essentially covered the search for the other. With the amendment filed February 23, 2006 this is no longer the case. The method and the apparatus claims have diverged from their original commonality. Therefore, restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions, which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claims 1 and 3-21, drawn to a method of processing a Ni-containing layer.

Group II, claims 22-29, drawn to a plasma processing system.

The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: Independent claims 1 and 22 have little in common. Claim 1 is directed to a method of etching a Ni-containing layer. Claim 1 requires etching completely through a Ni-containing layer with an etchant comprising a carbonyl gas and a hydrogen halide. Claim 22 is directed to an apparatus that provides a rotating magnetic field to a plasma chamber that is capable of providing a carbonyl gas to a substrate with a Ni containing layer. The only common aspect is the use of CO to etch a Ni-containing layer. The prior art of record shows that etching Ni with a carbonyl is not novel and therefore this single commonality cannot constitute a special technical feature.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Allan Olsen whose telephone number is 571-272-1441. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F 1-5.
